Be it resolved by the people of the state of Missouri that the Constitution be amended:

Article I, Section 2 of the Constitution is amended to read as follows:

Section 2. That all constitutional government is intended to promote the general welfare of the people; that all persons have a natural right to life, liberty, the pursuit of happiness and the enjoyment of the gains of their own industry; that all persons are created equal and are entitled to equal rights and opportunity under the law; that to give security to these things is the principal office of government, and that when government does not confer this security, it fails in its chief design.

To secure these rights, governments are instituted among people, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. Artificial entities, such as corporations, limited liability companies, and other entities, established by law, typically enjoy the advantages of unlimited life, the ability to raise large sums of money, and limited liability. Contributions and expenditures by such artificial entities, intended to influence in various ways the election of candidates for public office or ballot measures, all too often evince a design to gain unfair advantages for these artificial entities, often at the expense of the general welfare of natural persons.

The rights protected by the Constitution of the State of Missouri are the rights of natural persons only. Artificial entities, such as corporations, limited liability companies, and other entities, established by the laws of any State, the United States, or any foreign state are subject to regulation by the People of Missouri, through State, or local law, and shall have only those rights under this Constitution that are specifically granted to them by the People of Missouri, through State, or local law, and shall not be construed to be inherent or inalienable.

The state of Missouri, to give security to the rights of natural persons, may, and hereby does, limit the right to make contributions or expenditures to influence the election of any candidate or ballot measure to natural persons.
